From the Chief Executive Officer

On behalf of the Board of Directors and staff of the Central Mississippi Planning and Development District (CMPDD), it is our distinct pleasure to present this 50 Year Report. It is important to note that this organization, after 50 years of existence, continues to operate at a high level of productivity, efficiency, and innovation. CMPDD has come a long way over 50 years in terms of budget and staff size. During CMPDD's formation in 1968, the initial budget for FY 1969 was set at $61,000 to support just three or four staff. After a half century, CMPDD's budget has grown to $28.3 million and employs a staff of 100 persons in a wide range of disciplines.

This growth would not have been possible without the commitment of our local governments throughout our seven (7) county region. The CMPDD region is a diverse area that contains the largest metropolitan area population in the State of Mississippi, as well as, small rural, agricultural communities. Our purpose is to improve the overall well-being of the central Mississippi region by addressing problems and issues that go beyond any one political subdivision. We have shown the ability to lead when necessary, but also follow the desires and policies of its overall membership.

The praises that I am bestowing upon this organization are not just a credit to the loyal and qualified staff we have assembled, but to an overall system and structure that adapts to ever-changing needs. The organization has achieved and maintained an extremely delicate balance of meeting local, state, and federal objectives and priorities through mutual effort. We strive to instill in our staff an entrepreneurial spirit that inspires us to constantly look for new and innovative ways to address the common issues and concerns of this most important region.

It is a tremendous honor and privilege to be a part of this organization and the structure that have been created over the past 50 years. I am extremely optimistic that we will continue to build upon the foundation that has been laid for many years to come.

The District is governed by a Board of Directors which is comprised of county and municipal elected officials, representatives of business and industry, and minority leaders.

The District as is known today was not created, but evolved over many years. While the same basic corporate governing structure continues to exist, it functions through a series of committees, sub-committees, and sometimes subsidiary corporations. Routine, normal decisions are made through this functional system where the Board of Directors has delegated much authority to subordinate groups. This structure attempts to achieve the greatest level of productivity, flexibility, accountability, and stability.

Hundreds of local leaders have contributed time and effort to steer the District’s course. Among them were the past Board Presidents here pictured.
The formation of the Central Mississippi Planning and Development District was a part of a national movement largely initiated from the federal level. It had become widely recognized that this country was no longer made up of cities, counties or communities; but of identifiable regions, and that there must be a regional mechanism to address the numerous problems, issues, and concerns.

This particular District was formed in 1968, around the same time the other nine were being established, largely due to the joint efforts of the Economic Development Administration (EDA), an agency of the Department of Commerce, Coordinator of Federal/State Programs David Bowen with the Office of Governor John Bell Williams, and the individual County Boards of Supervisors. With the EDA providing guidance, support and the incentive of federal funding, the Governor’s Office sent representatives to each county to obtain a declaration of their intent to join with other appropriate counties to form what was then known as the Economic Development District of Central Mississippi. Resolutions were passed by each county, funds were pledged, and the initial organizational meeting was held to establish the non-profit corporate structure. In August, a charter was issued from the Secretary of State’s office and CMPDD was legally created.

After its creation, each county formed a County Economic Development Committee which selected four Board Members to serve on the CMPDD Board of Directors, the legal policymaking body for the organization.

HIGHLIGHTS

- First organizational meeting to create the Economic Development District of Central Mississippi was held on June 7, 1968 in Jackson with Manning Cooper presiding.
- Charter of Incorporation issued in September by the Secretary of State’s office.
- At the first official meeting of the new organization in December, these officers were selected: Minor C. Sumners - President; Dr. Jacob Reddix- Vice President; and W. E. Barksdale - Secretary/Treasurer. Technical assistance was provided by Jack White, Chris Brady, and Bob Haupt from EDA in Washington, and Jack Warren and Claude Pittman from the State.

During the first year of operations, the primary goal was to create an Overall Economic Development Program (OEDP) process and document. This process began with each county committee attempting to identify goals, objectives, opportunities, and barriers, as well as a comprehensive inventory of the resources of the area. The individual work of the county committees was being combined at the regional level to create for the first time in history a comprehensive regional overview of the area. The end-product was a formally adopted document accepted by EDA as a funding tool to help direct the economic growth and progress of this region. Never before had functions and activities such as education, industrial development, transportation, water and sewer facilities, land-use controls, health care, and general demographics been reviewed and analyzed as one common body of information.

Once approved, this document served to identify those types of barriers which, if eliminated, would bring about greater economic growth to the region. EDA, as well as other appropriate federal and state funded agencies, was called upon to help direct their resources and grant programs to support the priorities identified in this OEDP. Federal guidelines as well as Memorandums of Agreements between federal agencies recognized the OEDP and its process as a single, common policymaking tool for the region.

During this time, the District began to assemble a staff beginning with Executive Director Fred Corley, a retired Highway Department District Engineer.

- Obtained a planning grant from the Economic Development Administration to continue organizational and administrative activities.
- Began creation of Overall Economic Development Program (OEDP) process and document.
- The first Executive Director, Fred G. Corley, was hired.
- Began operation with the first annual budget of $61,000.

During 1970, most of the actual preparation of the Overall Economic Development Program document was completed. The previous year had been largely one of organization and the creation of a structure upon which to build in 1970. The Overall Economic Development Program document was an extremely detailed and comprehensive report which required extensive research and public participation from all segments of the economic community. Toward the end of 1970, EDA approved this document and the accompanying process, and CMPDD was given the designation of an Economic Development District. This enabled the organization to continue to receive planning monies to address the common areas and concerns of the region, and allowed the local governments and other qualified entities to be eligible to receive EDA funding consistent with the Overall Economic Development Program.

Also, T. Larry Anderson began working for the District after having been employed in a management capacity for Standard Oil Company.

- Began an application process to be eligible to receive HUD designations in the area.
- A project for the City of Jackson to expand water, sewer, and storm drainage facilities was identified as the first priority for EDA funding.
- The first Overall Economic Development Program for the District was approved by EDA, making the area eligible for future funding.

The District was now in a position to begin implementing the findings, recommendations, and priorities as outlined in the Overall Economic Development Program. It had received an additional planning grant from EDA to continue its efforts. The first physical facility EDA project in the region was water and sewer enhancements within the City of Jackson to allow the medical center complexes to expand. This project not only created an immediate infusion of funds and jobs into the region, but provided the physical support necessary for one of the region's largest economic activities to grow and expand.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) also had a tremendous affect on the development of regional organizations. It recognized that it could no longer continue to try to fund various projects and programs by individual political jurisdiction; and placed very detailed requirements which had to be met for a locality to be considered for funding on projects for water and sewer facilities, recreational facilities, transportation, housing, etc. If an area was to continue to be eligible to receive the various types of HUD Project funding similar to that of EDA, there was a complex and prescribed process and document which had to be completed before HUD's designation of an areawide planning entity could be obtained. During the latter part of 1971, the various requirements of HUD were met through a series of planning elements such as the housing element, and the area received its official designation. During the early part of 1971, F. Clarke Holmes was hired as the person responsible for directing planning activities.

Also of major significance during 1971, Governor John Bell Williams issued Executive Order No. 81, designating the 10 districts as the official substate planning organizations for Mississippi. This designation carried very significant responsibilities and authorities which still exist today.

- First EDA capital grant to the region - Jackson water and sewer grant.
- The State declared its intent to designate this District for comprehensive health planning, manpower planning, and law enforcement assistance.
- Executive Order No. 81 issued designating the 10 Planning and Development Districts as official regions for Mississippi.
The District continued to mature and increase its area of influence. The Economic Development Administration (EDA) application which had previously been initiated was completed and finally submitted for funding approval. Housing and Urban Development (HUD) continued to play a significant role in the region and required that an overall program design be prepared to parallel that of the EDA funding document.

In late 1972, President Nixon signed into law what was commonly known for many years as Revenue Sharing. This became one of the more significant federal, state, and local partnerships to let each level of government attempt to do what it does best.

Also during this year, the District began a planning process to identify the common goals, concerns, problems, and opportunities for the evergrowing elderly population. After the approval of an extensive planning and research program, the Mississippi Council on Aging designated the District as the Central Mississippi Area Agency on Aging - a designation that continues to provide the elderly with millions of dollars of annual funding. The aging designation, again, was almost an identical process to that from EDA and HUD.

HIGHLIGHTS

- The name was officially changed to Central Mississippi Planning and Development District.
- The District was designated as the Central Mississippi Area Agency of Aging
- Central Mississippi Planning and Development District's first involvement with the newly created process of Revenue Sharing
- The District prepared its first Overall Program Design for HUD.

Bill Stacey served as the District’s second Executive Director until leaving to work for then Congressman David Bowen.
Regionalism was becoming more and more significant. The Office of Management and Budget, A-95, had mandated that no federal assistance would be provided without a declaration that projects and programs were in conformance to statewide and area-wide plans and policies. This was designed to prevent duplication, overlaps, and waste. As a result of Executive Order 81, the 10 districts were designated as regional clearinghouses for this review process and associated funding. By April of 1973, the District had reviewed and cleared over $60,000,000 of federally funded projects. It was now very obvious that the Planning and Development Districts across this state and nation were becoming an institution and would address many critical issues and concerns for years to come.

During this year, F. Clarke Holmes became Executive Director and the District continued to mature and expand. Based upon an approved plan for the elderly, aging projects and development funds began to flow more freely, and activities such as the first nutrition site program were initiated.

HUD continued to play a significant role in the development of the region, and additional planning requirements were mandated as a prerequisite for funding. During this time, the first area-wide land use plan was developed and approved, and there were numerous local activities such as mapping in Warren County, planning for Wesson, and a recreation project at McNair Springs in Simpson County. A project which was later funded was submitted for industrial park improvements at the Yazoo County Port, and Jackson received a technical assistance grant to help determine the ideal location for future industrial park sites.

The District recognized a need to keep member governments informed of opportunities, issues, and common concerns. Therefore, publication of a District newsletter, “The Quarterly Review,” was initiated in the summer of 1973.

- James Jefferson from Vicksburg was elected President, R. L. Davis from Copiah County - Vice President, and Bill Barksdale continued to be Secretary/Treasurer.
- Spiro Agnew resigned and Gerald Ford became the Vice President.
- The Mississippi Valley Flood of 1973 did over $170 million in damages to the Mississippi Delta.
- The CAT scan was invented.
- A gallon of gas cost $0.40.

Lt. Governor - William F. Winter

This year marked the beginning of the District becoming a fully diverse comprehensive organization. While economic development would always remain its point of origin and principal mission, this function was beginning to be viewed in an extremely broad context. The HUD 701 Program provided funding for both regional and local planning activities, and the District provided planning and technical assistance to virtually every community during this time period.

Of equal significance was the official beginning of governmental management as a viable function of CMPDD. The District received funding through the Intergovernmental Personnel Administration to provide a circuit-rider program to aid local governments in establishing Public Personnel Systems. A similar activity was begun with the Governor's Highway Safety Program. Emphasis was being shifted from just providing planning for the future to aiding with the day-to-day problem solving necessary at the local level. In addition to prototypes being developed, actual hands-on, day-to-day technical assistance was being provided to local governments in an extremely cost effective manner.

Recreation was of major interest. The District developed the first Regional Recreation Plan and began a funding relationship for project development with the Department of Interior which is still extremely viable. During this time and several years to follow, through the use of this regional plan, projects were identified, designed, and constructed at a record pace.

CMPDD also published its first Annual Report to accompany its newsletter begun the year before.

- Application submitted to expand Hinds Junior College golf course.
- Provided technical assistance to church groups in the Jackson Area sponsoring the “Meals-on-Wheels” Program.
- Assisted governments in the design of outdoor facilities and securing of federal funds from the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation: Pearl, park site - $150,000; Magee, McNair Springs Park - $160,000; Mendenhall, park site - $100,000; Canton, four tennis courts - $75,000; and Yazoo City, parking lot designs.
- Designated Metropolitan Planning Organization.
This was one of the more pivotal years in the history of the District. After more than 18 months of negotiation, a three-county Metropolitan Council of Governments was officially merged into the Planning and Development District. The role of CMPDD took on a whole new dimension and several designations which are present today were bestowed upon this organization. This consolidation made CMPDD the undisputed regional planning and economic development agency for its 7 county area. It also set a precedent that all future regional programs and activities should be channeled through this one organizational structure to achieve the most cost effective utilization of severely limited resources.

In assuming these additional responsibilities, it was found necessary to create a functional committee system to deal with such specialized areas as the elderly, the metropolitan area, and the day-to-day administrative affairs of the District.

- Central Mississippi Planning and Development District and Hinds/Madison/Rankin/Capital City Council of Governments merge functions.
- The District was officially recognized as the agency responsible for directing the transportation planning process for the Jackson urbanized area.
- Economic Development Administration approves Industrial development project pre-applications for the City of Jackson - $3.2 million, and Warren County - $4.4 million.
- Nutrition Program for the Elderly expanded to Madison County.

Former Planning Director Larry Smith came to the District from the Council of Governments.

CMPDD became the agency responsible for the Jackson Urbanized Area Transportation Process.
This year saw many of the prior years' efforts begin to fully materialize. Based upon the findings of the Overall Economic Development Program (OEDP), over $7,000,000 of industrial park funds were granted to Warren County and the City of Jackson. Congress enacted a local public works program, administered by ED A, which provided local governments with millions of dollars for public works improvements. Regional housing and transportation plans were begun, and senior citizens' programs expanded at a rapid pace. The Planning and Development Districts in Mississippi received formal attention with the first Governor's Planning and Development District Conference where national leaders convened to discuss regional trends.

The Farmers Home Administration (FHA) had re-organized its district regional offices to coincide with the boundaries of the Planning and Development Districts.

The District had been actively involved in the National Flood Insurance Program since its inception, but during this year provided intensive regional leadership aimed at insuring full participation in the program.

Recreation development was at an all-time high, and Central Mississippi Planning and Development District had two full-time landscape architects aiding with the funding, design, and construction of facilities.

The District had become much more involved in national affairs, and staff were given several opportunities during the year to testify before various Congressional Committees. The District’s Executive Director, Clarke Holmes, was also serving on many national boards and committees of public interest groups helping to shape and direct national priorities.

The District was ending its first ten years of service and had seen its budget grow from $60,000 to over $2,000,000 during its ten years of operation. Many Housing and Urban Development (HUD) programs were consolidated into the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG), attempting to provide more control and autonomy at the local level. HUD regional planning requirements were heightened, and a recertification process was mandated and completed for this region.

- The District’s first Senior Center Program was begun.
- The Vicksburg Gas System Renovation application for $625,000 was approved by the EDA.
- Industrial development applications for Canton to build an access road and for Jackson to install sewer lines. Yazoo City received approval on a $38,000 technical assistance application.

The two most significant events of this year were by far the 1979 Easter Flood which devastated thousands of persons within this District and a national scarcity of energy resources reaching near crisis proportions. Without neglecting any of its routine responsibilities, the District demonstrated an ability to respond rapidly with effectiveness and competency during crisis situations.

Emergency plans previously developed were implemented, and various field office structures were established to provide the optimum-level of relief and reduce the ultimate effects of the Pearl River flooding. Prior experience with documentation for federal and state aid was found to be equally as important as previous disaster preparedness.

Regional energy conservation plans were implemented. Mass transportation, express buses, even/odd gas days, carpooling, and park-and-ride systems became a reality.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Technical assistance was provided for HUD Section 407 preapplications for the City of Canton and Warren County as a result of damages caused by extensive Easter flooding.
- Applications for $140,000 submitted to the MS Bureau of Outdoor Recreation for Mendenhall City Park, and a $45,000 application for the development of Bell Quarter Park in Hazlehurst.
- Received approval for EDA applications as follows: City of Canton - $100,000 to build an industrial park access road; Copiah County - $350,000 for construction of water and sewer lines; Town of Pelahatchie - $200,000 for construction of water and sewer mains.
- District staff immediately mobilized and began providing disaster assistance to those member governments inundated by the Easter Flood.
- The District played a significant role in the obligation of more than $10,694,043 in CETA funds. These funds were obligated to 135 contractors in Hinds and Rankin Counties.
- District received $66,323 in federal grant money for senior centers.
- Began ridesharing and emergency contingency plan.

The year 1980 also represented many significant events. After several years of research and testing, the Year 2000 Transportation Plan was formally adopted for the Jackson Metropolitan Area. This plan would serve as a guide for the expenditure of millions of dollars of federal funds until it will be completely updated in the mid 1990’s.

The first Urban Development Action Grant in the State of Mississippi was funded attracting the Levi-Strauss Company to locate a $23.3 million garment distribution center in south Madison County. In addition, 5 applications for similar types of public works improvements were approved by EDA for over $6 million.

CMPDD began its first formal efforts to provide economic development financing during this year with the submission to EDA of an application for a Revolving Loan Program. This would represent a highly significant direct infusion of dollars into the business community which would continue to grow in significance for many years to come.

• Obtained Urban Development Action Grants for Canton and Yazoo City. The Canton project provided funds for development of an industrial park near Gluckstadt. More than $1 million was allocated by HUD for the park site development. As a result, the Levi Strauss Company constructed a 14-acre distribution center.

• Home Delivered Meals Program for the District’s elderly received federal funding.

In 1980, CMPDD prepared 5 major grant applications which were funded by EDA, including a $1,320,000 matching grant for improvements at Jackson’s water treatment plant.

• CMPDD assisted in preparing the “Transition Plan for the Provision of Accessible Transportation for Handicapped Persons.”

Paving the way for construction of the Levi Strauss Distribution Center in Canton was a $1.4 million Urban Development Action Grant application prepared by Central Mississippi Planning and Development District.
Shortly after the beginning of 1981, massive changes in federal aid to state and local governments took place. There was a massive effort from the national level to reduce federal spending and shift many of these responsibilities to other levels of government. Much of this was unexpected and CMPDD had to re-organize to consolidate functions and reduce any nonessential spending. In addition to more frugal management, a major effort was initiated to identify new and different sources of revenue. Implementation of the newly adopted Regional Transportation Plan continued to be a major priority. Emphasis was placed on energy-related activities such as ride sharing, van pools, and traffic engineering. The District began a circuit-rider traffic engineering program similar to other management activities, and hired a certified traffic engineer to work with individual communities for over 3 years in helping to determine cost effective ways of moving people and goods without having to provide additional capital facilities.

- Senior Discount Program started.
- PDD funding authorized by State Legislature.
- Brandon, Pelahatchie, and Yazoo City received a total of $1,288,000 to construct water and sewer lines for low income neighborhoods, and Yazoo County received $236,000 for reconstruction of a bridge which had been destroyed by floods.

- 12,786 calls were served through the Outreach Program which strives to put people in need of services in contact with the sources available.
The District created the Central Mississippi Development Company, Inc. which became certified by the Small Business Administration (SBA) as a certified development company. This organization, acting as a fully owned subsidiary of CMPDD, would actually make direct small business loans to business endeavors seeking to begin or expand. These loans, while directly made by the local organization, would have the backing of the federal government in the event of default therefore insuring both long-term as well as attractive rates.

Also during 1982, the Central Mississippi Regional Entitlement was created and existed for almost 4 years for the purpose of prioritizing and allocating Community Development Block Grant funds based upon a regional planning system. This provided this region of the state with its own set-aside of funds and allowed communities to compete only against one another.

- Developed a Transit System and Transportation Energy Contingency Plan for Jackson.
- Created Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Regional Entitlement.
- CMPDD assisted MP&L in the development of Project Energy Concern.

- Prepared and received funding approval for the first Special Opportunities grant in the State of Mississippi which allowed the City of Canton to make a loan to Inland Steel Corporation in their expansion efforts.
- The City of Ridgeland was the first city in Mississippi ever to receive funding approval under the Secretary's Discretionary Fund, U.S. Department of HUD, to allow the construction of water and sewer lines necessary for the development of Holmes Jr. College High-Tech branch.
Committees were being used extensively with over 7 functional committees working on a daily basis. Probably most important during this year was the acquisition of a full scale computer system for the District’s internal use. This system was installed to not only improve the long term planning and analysis capability of the organization, but also to provide day-to-day administrative assistance by internal accounting and fiscal management. Included with this effort was the loading of the 1980 Census on to the District central computer which was paving the way for the extensive computer-based Geographic Information System which is now available and being enhanced on a daily basis.

The District began 1985 by receiving an award of excellence from the National Association of Regional Councils and the Governor’s Office of Federal/State Programs. This award was granted for successfully completing a nationally recognized evaluation process. CMPDD was the first in the state to volunteer to participate and complete this evaluation process.

The District began updating the 1980 Transportation Plan through a series of sub-area analyses which proved to be a cost effective way of keeping transportation planning current without the extensive costs of a full-blown plan revision.

More formalized efforts were initiated to help keep the elderly in their homes longer. The District held a conference entitled “Business and the Elderly: Beyond Corporate Giving” in order to bring attention to the fact that long-term community-based care is an extremely cost effective alternative to institutionalization.

Justice Ruben Anderson became Mississippi’s first African-American Supreme Court Justice.
The first “.com” domain name was registered.
The average income was $22,100.
As in many years, 1986 marked several firsts and beginnings. Probably the most significant was the initiation of the District’s current Geographic Information System. After extensive research, the District began to purchase equipment, software, and invest extensive time in becoming technically proficient with this most advanced technology. For the next 2 or 3 years the District would invest extensive resources in placing the best available physical maps in the computer and, therefore, lay a sound foundation for the most efficient GIS in this state.

The community-based long-term care program for the elderly with extensive Case Management capability became much more formalized in the Central Mississippi region. It was becoming more and more obvious that institutionalization was too costly an alternative to providing needed services and facilities at one’s home. Even more important was the happiness and longevity of the clients.

The name of the District’s newsletter was changed from “The Quarterly Review” to the “Central Update.”

HIGHLIGHTS

A proposal was submitted by CMPDD, in conjunction with the City of Jackson, for the purchase and operation of a downtown trolley system. This would later result in the “Steel Magnolia” trolley network that is now in effect.

For the first time in history, the State Legislature enacted a statewide economic development planning law mandating multi-year economic planning using the Planning and Development Districts. F. Clarke Holmes was named to the initial task force to implement the legislation and write the first state plan. Probably the most significant event of the year was the acquirement of land by the District where its current office would later be located.

After many years the District’s Revolving Loan Proposal from EDA was approved. This valuable source of additional financing was finally a reality. It would represent a highly significant direct infusion of dollars into the business community which would continue to grow in significance for many years to come.

The District was beginning to successfully integrate many of its programs into a comprehensive approach to economic development. Different loan programs were being linked with infrastructure grants as well as training activities to provide a very attractive portfolio of aid to business and industry wishing to locate or expand in Central Mississippi.

The sub-area transportation planning approach was continued but it was quickly being recognized that a totally new transportation plan for the region would soon need to be initiated.

The Geographic Information System began to lay the groundwork for the 1990 Census, and the same mapping processes of the District would be used. There was much interest from local communities regarding complying with new comprehensive planning legislation.

By far the most significant event of the year was moving to the new office complex. This project was initiated in September of 1979 and the benefits greatly exceeded anything which could have been anticipated. While this office was built with anticipated growth and expansion capability, it has operated at total capacity and peak efficiency almost from the first day it was opened.

Local governments recognized the importance of total accurate Census counts for their communities and initiated programs to address these concerns. Preliminary 1990 Census figures became available and local governments were called to the District office to review this data as well as file for corrections or recounts where needed.

The 1990 Census was successfully merged into the District’s ongoing Geographic Information System. The capabilities of this system were quickly tested as the District spent a large part of the year engaged in highly complicated, sophisticated, political jurisdictional restructuring. This process was deemed extremely successful because it met in a timely manner all required legal and/or Justice Department guidelines.

Based upon a new Surface Transportation Efficiency Act passed by Congress, the District formally began the update of the regional transportation plan for the Jackson Urbanized Area. This planning process would be one of the more significant regional activities ever undertaken since it would result in the prioritization and allocation of transportation construction funds over the next 6 years. The issues and concerns have not greatly changed over the years, but the technology and sophistication has been greatly enhanced. The District initiated a process to provide local development offices with direct online access to economic development and statistical data. Information and systems used for county redistricting now became invaluable as municipalities begin to re-ward their communities. It was found that the residual data systems left in place from this valuable information being loaded onto the Geographic Information System were even more important than the projects which provided the data initially.

The Mississippi Association of Planning and Development Districts held its first annual spring conference on the Gulf Coast. There were 250 in attendance with Governor Kirk Fordice as one of the principal speakers. CMPDD also entered into a financial arrangement to serve as the staff to the Mississippi Association of Planning and Development Districts (MAPDD), therefore bringing for the first time staff support necessary to address state-wide common issues and concerns.

AT&T released the Video Telephone and it retailed for $1,499.
A gallon of gas cost $1.05.
The District began the 1993 year with the most optimistic and comprehensive program of work and budget ever developed for this organization. Regional economic development, which was the original mission of the organization, has returned to become one of the strongest focal points for the region. The District completed a study funded by EDA designed to further identify and enhance regional economic development opportunities and began implementing many recommendations during this year.

Local planning began to reach all new heights with utilization of GIS technology. Projects ranging from full blown comprehensive development plans to specialized studies such as property naming and numbering, and emergency E-911, all utilized this most advanced state-of-the-art technology.

Finally, after over 25 years of existence, a series of legal opinions, rulings, and case law finally clarified the legal status of Planning and Development Districts in Mississippi. In summary, these organizations were found to be chartered, private, nonprofit corporations which were local voluntary membership organizations of local governments. Further, these Districts were found to be independent entities, but extensions of local government and, therefore, qualifying for a quasi-public status for select purposes, opportunities, and authority. This unique organizational structure was found not to violate the Separation of Powers Doctrine nor pose ethical problems of local officials serving on Planning and Development District Boards.

The District’s success in 1994 began to break new ground not only in economic development, but technology advancement. That year, the American Economic Development Council announced that CMPDD was the recipient of two (2) National Awards. CMPDD’s entry for Integrating MapInfo and Dbase Programing received Best of Class, while the Central Mississippi Information Center (CMIC) entry was awarded a superior rating, second place finish. This investment was the beginning of the state of the art means of accessing information for the entire district. Further, CMPDD was able to offer County officials, E-911 staff, and others access to digital mapping information in place of the old drafting methods. CMPDD’s first Data Specialist position was created this year to keep up with the technical advancements. These advancements resulted in significant growth for the District and approval of the Work Program containing sixteen (16) individual projects and the largest budget to date. This was done with no increase to local dues the previous five (5) years.

- Highland Colony Parkway in Madison County opens. CMPDD was instrumental in developing award winning Land Use/Thoroughfares Plan for Madison County that guided the project.

This area placed itself, through strategic planning over the years, to this year being in a position to reap many future benefits in a changing economic environment. Computerized Radial searches came into play and were provided through the use of our Geographic Information System (GIS). By doing so, a business or industrial prospect could determine if a sufficient clientele existed or if its potential labor force was within a specific mile radius. These results would determine whether or not the location was feasible. The new programs for the Elderly began to evolve and take shape. Many of the projects and activities initiated during this period served as a sound and stable foundation for future effort.

This year was a turning point for the District. While the large block of grants to state and local government did not come about as projected, the intent and general acceptance was clear. This year demonstrated that it was not a matter of “if” the federal government reduced its domestic assistance program rate, but “when”. The days of the federal government collecting revenue and redistributing it back to the state and local government to meet national public concerns were slowly closing. The state and local governments now faced the responsibility to generate revenue if a program was to continue. The role of CMPDD became more important than ever. The District was created to be used as a mechanism to decentralize decision making to the lowest practical level and to act as a service delivery system that could do more with less.

The District made some more major investments in technology this year in order to meet the growing challenges. CMPDD’s Data Center began offering an additional service to local government and private enterprise through the use of modern traffic counting/classifying equipment. This new equipment could produce data on vehicle classifications as well as on traffic volume and speeds. Also, the Visual Industrial Site Information Organizing Network (V.I.S.I.O.N.) began the process of development at CMPDD. V.I.S.I.O.N. is a tool for public and private sector parties interested in economic development. The data management program was on CD-Rom and included digital maps, infrastructure information, and basic demographics. The ability to merge computerized maps with various data sets took on an increased significance.

This year was a year full of changes in the economic and political climate. The District helped provide continuity and consistency during this time of change. The senior staff of CMPDD remained intact, with six (6) of the senior staff members averaging well over 25 years of experience. This level of experience enabled CMPDD to operate at a management level where many difficult problems and concerns could be handled as routine issues and matters. The investment in our employees provided a solid infrastructure that allowed CMPDD to move into another level of advanced management and technology.

• CMPDD became involved with the Year 2000 Census. The District set up a series of meetings in the area and helped its counties to update their maps for a more accurate count.

• In October Mississippi made changes to its Welfare Program. These changes were due to the new Federal Reform Law. This new law ended Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) and replaced it with Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) Work Program. The TANF Work Program also replaced the Job Opportunities and Basic Skills (JOBS) Work Program.

This year saw three (3) major issues emerge from the 105th Congress that were extremely important to this region. First, Congress enacted the largest public works law in history with the TEA21 Legislation. This law continued the importance of local governments and intergovernmental cooperation through the use of the Metropolitan Planning Organization (MPO) process, which helped to ensure funding while adopting a long-range transportation plan. In addition there were quite a few special projects that were approved as part of this legislation.

The next congressional action was the re-authorization of the Economic Development Administration (EDA). This agency of the U.S. Department of Commerce has participated in the construction of virtually every industrial park in central Mississippi. The stability of permanent authorizing legislation was a major accomplishment.

Another significant event was the passing of the Work Force Investment Act (WIA). This continued the employment and training efforts of the U.S. Department of Labor and recognized local governments as the building blocks upon which these structures were formed. The Central Mississippi Service Delivery Area, due to its prior performance was given a grand-fathered status in this new legislation. These changes allowed local governments to maintain their independence and autonomy while it allowed services and facilities to be regionalized when found to be beneficial and cost effective.

- CMPDD staff contacted local governments in an attempt to determine which municipalities and counties are in compliance with Mississippi planning law regarding their comprehensive plans and zoning ordinances. As a result the District contracted with the governments of four (4) cities: Canton, Crystal Springs, Flowood, and Raymond, which were determined to be in need of updates.

This year CMPDD celebrated Thirty (30) years of engaging efforts to improve the quality of life and economic betterment of Central Mississippi. The diversity of these efforts in the wide range of functions and activities was proving to be our greatest strength. The District had established itself as a leader in its field and people across the country were beginning to take note. The Central Mississippi Service Delivery Area (CMS-DA), similar to current Southcentral Mississippi Works, continued to expand its partnership with all agencies or institutions engaged in human services and job training. Economic development efforts were alive and well as the District helped to secure over $1.8 million in Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Economic Development Public Improvement Grants for several communities. The Geographic Information System (GIS) Division of CMPDD once again proved to be a major support service of the District. All of this was achieved without raising the local membership dues for the tenth year in a row.

- In September of 1999, the Mayor and Board of Aldermen of the City of Pearl voted unanimously to adopt a new Comprehensive Plan prepared by the District.
- A Transit Technical Committee (subcommittee of the District's Intermodal Technical Committee) was organized to guide preparation of the Regional Transit Plan.

The start of a new century was a year of preparation for a major economic development project of massive magnitude. This billion dollar industrial project was the Nissan Manufacturing Plant in Canton. A large part of CMPDD’s involvement in that process was to ensure that the site, surrounding area, and the entire region was equipped from an infrastructure standpoint to accommodate the location of such a massive facility. This largely involved combining many different types of funding resources, with an emphasis on federal grants to construct needed and necessary improvements. It also involved ensuring that the land use requirements, transportation, utilities, environmental concerns, and workforce development were all available and operating in a comprehensive and coordinated manner.

Special federal legislation was written to ensure that the site under consideration was eligible for all types of qualified aid. We were quite fortunate to have an information and data gathering mechanism in place to handle the time constraints we faced at the time.

HIGHLIGHTS:

- CMPDD prepared a Public School Facilities Plan for the Rankin County School District.
- A groundbreaking ceremony occurred for the Clinton Parkway that linked north and south Clinton. The Districts’ Metropolitan Planning and Policy Committee committed $7,921,436 in Federal Surface Transportation Program funds, made available through the District from the Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act (ISTEA) and the Transportation Equity Act for the 21st Century (TEA-21).
- In Fiscal Year 2000 the Central Mississippi Information Center (CMIC), now referred to as our Regional Data Center, prepared a Jackson Metro Area Workforce Assessment for the Metropolitan Economic Development Alliance (MEDA). The District was contracted to study the workforce availability in the metro area and surrounding counties.
- The Central Mississippi Service Delivery Area (CMSDA) provided academic and work based training activities to 106 out of school youths through a contract with Education and Training Resources.
- CMSDA served 150 low income adults with occupational training and job placement services and 84% were working three months after completing the program.
This was definitely a year of highs and lows. As for regional economic development the announcement of the location of Nissan North America plant in Madison County was by far the most outstanding event. With a projected workforce of 4,000 inside the Nissan Plant and possibly another 4,000 people employed by suppliers, the impact to our economy was enormous. This was the greatest single economic development in our region to date.

By far the lowest point in this year was the September 11th terrorist attack on our nation. The loss of life and property is without precedent and it took many years to overcome the resulting economic losses. Thankfully CMPDD had prepared itself to offer needed assistance during times of disaster and hardship.

- In December, the District began an analysis of the impact the $930 million Nissan plant would locate near Canton.
- CMPDD signed a contract with the Emergency Management Office of Rankin County to update and revise their Emergency Management Operation Plan.

- The Home-Delivered Meals Program which receives the highest percentage of funding through the District, served 1,565 daily meals in Fiscal Year 2001.
In the aftermath of September 11, 2001, a new initiative of strengthening the domestic security of this region and nation emerged, and local governments had to start playing a more active role. It became evident that national security could only be effective if there was a strong, comprehensive, and coordinated effort at the local and regional level. Efforts were initiated during Fiscal Year 2002 to bring about a comprehensive partnership in fighting domestic terrorism and improving national security. These efforts were extended throughout the next several years.

By the year 2003 issues and activities had become more involved and complex. Projects and programs were starting to involve multiple jurisdictions and requiring several forms of financing from federal, state, local, and private. Much of the year was spent securing funding and planning for the huge growth in the north area of the District due to the North America Nissan Plant. The success of the Nissan Plant brought the importance of industrial site planning to a new level in the District’s seven (7) counties. District staff completed the inventory and digitizing process for the twenty (20) public industrial parks located throughout the District.

CMPDD enjoyed quite a productive year in 2004. The largest impact made was in the area of workforce development. The Madison County WIN Job Center continued to develop to meet the rapidly changing workforce needs resulting from the location of the Nissan North America Plant in Canton. The District continued to support an extensive employer-driven training program that targeted workers recently hired by Nissan and supplier industries. South-central Mississippi Works responded to major closures and layoffs occurring mainly in the southwest portion of the State by forming a comprehensive approach to the needs of the dislocated workers.

Even with some closures economic development was alive and well. The number of new businesses was growing and so was the need for funding. With the combination of all the above 2004 was a very busy year for CMPDD.

Much of fiscal year 2005 was business as usual, that is until August 26, 2005 when Hurricane Katrina devastated the Mississippi Gulf Coast. Unlike previous hurricanes, Katrina’s size caused devastation over a much larger area with hurricane force winds reaching well into central Mississippi. While the devastation in central Mississippi was not nearly as great as that of south Mississippi, we nevertheless felt a great impact. CMPDD and the local governments in central Mississippi responded quickly in a collective manner to provide much needed aid and assistance to not only our area, but to our harder hit neighbors as well. All the local governments in central Mississippi, acting through leadership from the District, had recently prepared and approved pre-disaster mitigation plans. This process not only helped to lessen the harmful effects of Katrina, but proved to be a sound foundation for various types of future federal and state financial assistance.

A large portion of Fiscal Year 2006 was focused on recovering from the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina. Congress created the Gulf Opportunity Zone and this zone included 2/3 of Mississippi. Most of our area was included and eligible for funding. Katrina obviously had a devastating impact on the entire state. It became evident that many workers displaced by the storm, would need to develop new careers. Southcentral Mississippi Works under the National Emergency Grant, was able to assist 1,200 hurricane victims with over 800 receiving workforce training services. In January, 2006 the District began serving as the liaison between Mississippi Emergency Management Agency (MEMA) and the other nine (9) Planning and Development Districts to assist and coordinate the approval process for local Mitigation Plans. In addressing the issues from this catastrophic event, the diversity of the District proved to be of great assistance.

A Federal sequester of funds was in full force during the year 2013, which resulted in automatic cutbacks to a number of Federal programs. Thankfully, these budget reductions produced no tangible loss of productivity or services for the District. Toward the end of the year we even saw the Federal government begin a shutdown process that lasted for several weeks. The Transportation Planning process saw the passage of new legislation with significant funding being made available. CMPDD was awarded the contract to prepare a Master Plan for the Pearl River Valley Water Supply District (PRVWSD), which was the first major use of some new GIS technology for comprehensive planning purposes. This plan would no longer only exist as a paper document, but also as a virtual element that could be accessed with a smart phone, tablet, or computer. The significant changes in healthcare caused CMPDD to begin incorporating healthcare management into our local planning efforts, and training healthcare workers became an important part of our workforce development program.

FY 2014 was a successful year for all of the divisions of the District. The Metropolitan Planning Organization allocated over $24 million to 30 high-priority transportation projects. State and Federal agencies determined there was a need to establish a comprehensive system for disabled and senior citizens to receive information, obtain referral services, and complete enrollment applications for assistance. CMPDD was one of three Planning and Development Districts in the State chosen to establish a Mississippi Access to Care (MAC) Center to help meet those needs. The first local Master Plan for Healthcare initiated by local governments and economic developers was completed by CMPDD for Simpson County. The Elderly and Disabled Home and Community-Based Waiver (Medicaid Waiver) program reached a record high average of over 98% of the allotted 2,400 slots for the year. Together these projects brought many groups, organizations, and interests into a common element for the long-term benefit of this region.

After 45 years of service to CMPDD, which included 42 years as Chief Executive Officer (CEO), Clarke Holmes announced his retirement leading to a change in leadership at CMPDD. While in some organizations a change in leadership signals a new path or approach for correcting deficiencies, that was not the case here at CMPDD. The Board chose to promote from within by selecting Mike Monk. Mr. Monk was an experienced leader and very familiar with the operations and staff. With over twenty-three years of experience working at the District, he was prepared to continue carrying out the ongoing mission of the Board of Directors. The importance of a smooth transition cannot be overlooked by an organization like CMPDD, which has benefited greatly from the institutional knowledge and expertise of its staff.

- The Metropolitan Transportation Plan for the Jackson Urbanized Area was completed. The Plan included six (6) volumes for review by the various transportation committees, local governments, and the general public.
- The Data User Group, comprised of various District staff, began efforts to research opportunities, develop policies, and implement a process for digitally archiving files. This would enhance the District’s ability to electronically submit internal paperwork to improve our office efficiency.
- The District formally opened the doors to the Mississippi Access to Care (MAC) Center at the WIN Job Center in Canton.
- The District’s Medicaid Waiver staff reached 100% of a State approved 2,459 slots comprised of individuals enrolled in the Elderly and Disabled Home and Community-Based Waiver Program.
- Throughout the FY 2015 The State Health Insurance Program (SHIP) and State Medicare Program (SMP) operated by CMPDD conducted fifty-two (52) informative presentations to approximately 610 individuals, and staff attended six (6) Health Fairs that reached an additional 2,578 seniors. Counselors also participated in a live cable television show which reached an estimated 30,000 viewers.
There were many notable accomplishments during FY 2016. The 2040 Metropolitan Transportation Plan was formally adopted by the Metropolitan Planning Policy Committee in November, 2015 after almost two (2) years of work. This plan is updated every five (5) years and serves to prioritize Federal transportation funding to local projects in the metropolitan area, which includes much of Hinds, Madison, and Rankin Counties.

The District made more progress in 2016 toward becoming a “paperless office” by launching an Employee Portal to provide a one-stop location for CMPDD employees to access all personnel documents and resources. Along that same effort, the District began the process of digitizing and archiving files to E-File Cabinet, a computer software program, to make document storage and retrieval more efficient. The staff involved in the Elderly and Disabled Home and Community-Based Waiver (Medicaid Waiver) program continued to assist an average of 2,400 clients in our seven-county region. These services provided by the District offer a projected cost savings of more than $55 million per fiscal year in Federal and State tax dollars. Together these three areas of work represent only a fraction of the ways that CMPDD continues to adapt to an ever changing environment requiring innovative approaches to address common issues of the seven-county region.

- The District completed a proposed Sign Ordinance for Yazoo City, which is an update of the one originally adopted in 1985.
- The City of Brandon received $250,091 in Capital Improvements Program (CAP) loan funds to purchase two (2) new fire trucks.
- During the past year the District updated its traffic count GIS viewer with the most recent traffic count data available and traffic count projections for the years 2030 and 2040.
- The District approved five (5) loans for a total of $2,048,450 in its Economic Development Financing Programs during this fiscal year. Those loans leveraged $3,159,825 in private capital resulting in total projects of $5,208,275 and forty three (43) new jobs.
- This year the Home Delivered Meals program the District operates delivered 294,866 meals.
This year brought a change in the Presidency of the United States, and with it a change in political philosophies. A number of cuts to some of our core programs were once again on the cutting block, such as the Economic Development Administration (EDA), the Delta Regional Authority (DRA), and the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program to name a few. However, the result was only some minor cuts. Transportation funding for projects in the metropolitan area had a big year with the Metropolitan Planning Organization (MPO) approving the distribution of over $20 million in Federal Surface Transportation Block Grant funds for twenty-six (26) local government projects in the Jackson Metropolitan Area. These funds, coupled with the nearly $9 million in local matching funds helped with some of the transportation needs in the area. This year the CMPDD continued the process of preparing the full update of the region’s Comprehensive Economic Development Strategy (CEDS) for the period 2018-2022. In the workforce division a Sector Strategy Plan was completed to help identify and direct resources to targeted industry sectors in the seventeen (17) county workforce region. The three (3) areas identified in the Sector Strategy Plan were healthcare, manufacturing, and transportation. Training and employment within these sectors are given priority for directing individuals that needed additional skills or jobs.

This year marks the 50th Anniversary for CMPDD. This year, although not fully complete at the time of publication, has been a year of transition and change. It has also been a year of reflection on where we have come over these 50 years. This year has seen the retirement of Larry Anderson, Director of Human Services, who thus far is the longest serving employee of CMPDD with 48 years of service. As a result of Mr. Anderson’s retirement, the Human Services Division was reorganized in August and divided into the Aging Division, Case Management (Medicaid Waiver) Division, and Workforce Division. Each of these divisions are led by capable Directors who look forward to continuing our legacy of exceptional work.

Earlier in the year it was officially announced that Hinds Community College and CMPDD were partnering to establish a new Comprehensive One-Stop Workforce Center at the Metrocenter in West Jackson. The new project will redevelop the former McRae’s/ Belk department store into a center that offers the workforce-related services of the Mississippi Departments of Human Services, Rehabilitation Services, and Employment Security in addition to offering on-site career technical training provided by Hinds Community College. We look forward to this center serving as an economic development driver for the central Mississippi area.

In June, the CMPDD Board of Directors approved proceeding with construction of a new main office building on Centre Pointe Boulevard in Pearl. CMPDD will continue to use the existing building on Lakeland Drive as headquarters for the metro Jackson Medicaid Waiver office, the MAC Center, and other related activities. Also at the June meeting, the CMPDD Board of Directors elected Flora Mayor Les Childress to serve as President for a two (2) year term. In addition, the Board approved Raymond Mayor Isla Tullos as Vice-President and Warren County Supervisor William Banks as Secretary-Treasurer.
